Warm regards FROM RICK W. MERRILL

It's almost hard to imagine that it was a little over a year ago that we opened our Dodson Specialty Clinics and by doing so, we brought our inpatient and outpatient services together, like never before, to further serve and care for our patients and their families.

As you read this issue, you'll see a consistent theme. Our expanded campus and the new programs and technology we've been able to add, happened because of you. As our donors, your support is integral to helping us to provide the care, services and programs that our patients and their families need and rely upon every day. Your support impacts all areas of care and translates into important initiatives, like our music therapy program, which provides such an important outlet and source of therapy for our patients.

Your continued support translates into the installation of advanced technology such as our MIBG suite, which enables us to treat cancer patients with neuroblastoma; a cutting edge treatment that is only offered in a few locations around the country and now is available at Cook Children's. Why is this important? Because it means that we now offer treatment to our patients that previously required them to travel to other areas of the country. Now, they can get the best care possible close to home.

These are but a few examples of what your generosity means to Cook Children's and to our patient families. With your continued support, we'll continue to look for innovative ways to provide the best care possible for our patients and their families. That is our promise to you.

Sincerely,

Rick W. Merrill

Carëgiving in action

THROUGH THE EYES OF A CAREGIVER: Shea Ingram, COOK CHILDREN'S MUSIC THERAPIST, PROVES DAILY THAT MUSIC DOES OUR PATIENTS GOOD.

For patients who are unable to create music on their own, such as newborns in our Neonatal Intensive Care Unit, Shea uses quieter instruments or songs to engage the patient in therapy.

Shea Ingram has a cart full of musical instruments and toys that she takes with her to every patient she sees. As a board-certified music therapist at Cook Children's Medical Center for five years, each patient Shea treats is referred to her by a Child Life specialist, physician or nurse. With patients from every department within the medical center, Shea uses her experience to treat each patient uniquely.

A common misconception of her job is that she plays music to the patients. Instead, most of her patients play music to her. With music therapy, the music is a tool that gives children a safe outlet for expression. Even if they lack musical talent, patients play anyway, not worried about finding a rhythm or playing the chords correctly. Music gives patients control in an environment where they otherwise may have little, to no control. It gives patients something, other than their injury or illness, to focus on while in the medical center.

The goal for each patient varies. For some, it can be moving without fear of tubes getting tangled or pulled. And for others, it's getting them to sit up for 30 seconds at a time while playing a drum or expressing their feelings through music.

Patients can hand out instruments to Shea, their family members and nurses and then conduct their very own band. They can write a song, record it and take it home with them. No matter how they choose to participate, the kids think that they're having fun, but they are "working."

What makes Shea's job so worthwhile to her is seeing the parents' reaction to the emotional healing during their therapy. Parents tell her that music therapy brings a smile to their child's face that they haven't seen in a long time or that they were able to see a side of their child that may have gotten lost in his or her illness.

The music therapy program at Cook Children's is possible, in great part, to the generous support of the KidLinks Foundation. Shea's part-time schedule allows her to only see a portion of the patients that are referred to the music therapy program. Her hope is that the program will continue to grow, allowing every child an opportunity to heal through music therapy.

A personal place in our hearts

On the eighth anniversary of our son's accident, we want all to know that we remain forever grateful to Cook Children's for the quality care and support we received during our extended stay. Your facility continues to help thousands of children and yet you leave such a personal place in the hearts of all you heal. No matter how much time has gone by, we will never forget.

Thank you,

The Gamblin family

Answer to our prayers

I just want to say a BIG thank you to Cook Children's. Recently, my 2-year-old son has been having some high blood sugar readings. We had been to the ER in Waco [we live about 45 miles from Waco] SEVERAL times and had a pretty traumatic experience for both my son and myself.

On August 10, we came to the ER at Cook Children's and I cannot say enough about how much different our experience was. Every single employee we came in contact with was BEYOND kind and understanding.

Everyone was SO patient with Sam and with myself as well, a scared, first-time mom never having had any serious health concerns with Sam before now. But the biggest difference came from a young woman named Hannah. I never caught her last name, but Ms. Hannah came to play with Sam while he was having an IV put in. The thought of another IV [after such a horrible time the night before at another hospital] terrified his grandmother and me. But, Hannah was our angel that night and with her help, Sam never even knew they did anything to him at all.

I am afraid I would never get to tell her just HOW MUCH her time and effort meant to us that night. I hope that someone will know her last name and tell her for us that she was truly an answered prayer for us that night. If I could make the 85-mile trip [one way] every time Sam needed to go to an ER, I would, just because Cook Children's goes above and beyond for ALL of their patients!

Jordan Moore Porter

Editorial note: We are happy to pass along these kinds words to Hannah Luedke who has been a Child Life specialist at Cook Children's for nearly three years.

*David was Cook Children's first

Fighting neuroblastoma

AS A PILOT FOR THE U.S. ARMY STATIONED IN AFGHANISTAN, JACK HUGHES COULDN'T WAIT TO GET HOME TO HIS WIFE, ASHTON, AND THEIR THREE YOUNG CHILDREN. LITTLE DID JACK KNOW THAT LESS THAN A MONTH AFTER HE GOT HOME, HE WOULD FACE THE MOST FRIGHTENING TIME OF HIS LIFE.

The enemy was stage 4, high-risk neuroblastoma and the attack was on 5-year-old David Hughes, the couple's son. Jack had gone from traveling the world, to having it turned upside down. "It was so shocking," Jack said. "I've read that for most kids with neuroblastoma, seems to come out of nowhere. It's found inadvertently it seems. David's been healthy. It had us all puzzled. It just hits you so quick. The person I am, I like to research and Google everything and find out as much as I can. It really throws you off your feet and in shock thinking about how much it's going to affect your life. Not just his life, but his parents' lives, his grandparents, his siblings... The entire family."

From early May to June 21, 2012, David complained of pain in his neck and hip, experienced high fevers and received nearly every scan and test imaginable. Then on June 21, David was diagnosed with cancer. After the diagnosis, the Hughes family went for treatment near Belton, Texas, where Jack is stationed with the U.S. Army. At the nearby hospital in Temple, a physician told the family about Cook Children's experimental I-131 metaiodobenzylguanidine (MIBG) treatment that the medical center would soon be offering. Jack knew about the program from his extensive research and through neuroblastoma parent programs the family is involved with, and he and Ashton were on board. As it turned out, David was the first patient to receive the MIBG treatment at Cook Children's. Early signs are good for David, but it will take time for the family to know for sure if he is clear. They are happy they participated in the treatment and say they would tell other parents to do the same.

"The doctors at Cook Children's looked at everything and decided he was a good candidate for MIBG therapy. The timing has just been wonderful that this has opened up here."

"We were going to do it," Ashton said. "If it hadn't opened up at Cook Children's, we would have gone elsewhere. We would do anything to help David. The doctors at Cook Children's looked at everything and decided he was a good candidate for MIBG therapy. The timing has just been wonderful that this has opened up here." Cook Children's opened its MIBG program in January of this year. MIBG is a targeted therapy that delivers radiation directly to cancer cells. MIBG uses an experimental radioactive isotope that seeks out neuroblastoma tumors, giving them more radiation than the normal tissues. Cook Children's MIBG facility is the only one in Texas and in the Southwest, which means families don't have to travel as far away to receive this innovative treatment. It's also unique because it has a comfortable room right next door to the child's room for a parent or caregiver. This room has a window looking into the child's room, and they can interact using an intercom system. Parents can even stay connected to work or their family through the Wi-Fi provided in the room. MIBG enters the body through the vein (in an IV). The IV infusion of MIBG takes about 90 minutes to two hours and is not painful. The child stays in the medical center for about five to seven days. Because MIBG is radioactive, it's handled very carefully. It also makes the child radioactive, which means he/she can't come out of the lead-lined room until the radiation has gone down to safe levels. This may take three to five days and in rare cases, longer. ►

The new MIBG treatment at Cook Children's

Keeps families close to home

Keeps parents close to their child, and

Keeps family-centered care a priority

Thank you to the donors, doctors, nurses and staff that make MIBG treatment possible at Cook Children's.

David celebrates the completion of his MIBG therapy with his parents Jack and Ashton.

Fighting neuroblastoma

It's a challenge to keep the child busy during this time. The MIBG treatment doesn't make them feel sick, so they should be their normal energetic selves. With the help of Child Life specialists, David was occupied with video games and TV, and by the last couple of days, he was entertaining everyone with pushups and returning back to his typical class-clown form.

The arrival of the MIBG treatment room is the culmination of four years of hard work by the Cook Children's staff. It's also the completion of a dream for many of the staff, including Meaghan Granger, M.D., director of the Neuroblastoma program.

"The hematology and oncology families at Cook Children's have formed a strong community of their own, fighting to make a difference in the lives of all of our cancer patients. These families are extremely engaged on a philanthropic level before, during and after treatment."

The cancer programs at Cook Children's have tremendous support from the community. It is only with the generosity of friends like Hyundai Hope on Wheels, Wipe Out Kids' Cancer, Tom Thumb Kindness for Kids and so many others that we are able to serve our cancer patients to the degree at which we do.

"We wouldn't even be talking about this program if it wasn't for everyone who has helped," Dr. Granger said. "The hematology and oncology families at Cook Children's have formed a strong community of their own, fighting to make a difference in the lives of all of our cancer patients. These families are extremely engaged on a philanthropic level before, during and after treatment. They truly embrace the Cook Children's promise by hosting and supporting activities such as The Blast 5k, Wine for a Cause, Love Club, Caleb Larson Memorial Cowboyin' for the Kids and various other events that benefit MIBG treatment. These families also played an important role in the design of the new cancer center by providing feedback and suggestions based on their experiences. All the hope they have for their own kids and wanting to help people, they know it trickles down to help one little patient like David."

Making giving a family affair

WITH A PASSION TO IMPROVE THE HEALTH OF EVERY CHILD, Kelly and Jeff Dillard

HAVE GIVEN FAMILIES AT COOK CHILDREN'S A BREATH OF FRESH AIR

Children need family by their side to fight illness and heal. To keep the love and support of their families close by, Cook Children's has built family-centered care into the very foundation of the care we provide. While this philosophy is practiced in every department and in every building at Cook Children's, the all single room Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) and Family Care Suite and Meditation Garden were built specifically to make the family experience even better.

Through their support of Cook Children's, the Dillards are able to give families dealing with difficult circumstances a way to focus on each other and move forward together.

Our NICU was designed to not only give families their own space, but also to facilitate bonding between the parents and their newborn. Parents can be with their baby at all times, participating in every aspect of their care.

BACK: Tucker, Mikal, Bud and Garrett Dillard.
FRONT: Bennie and Kelly Dillard.

The Family Care Suite and Meditation Garden, located on the fifth floor of the north tower were graciously given by Kelly and Jeff Dillard, in honor of their six happy, healthy children. This designated area lets patient families get fresh air without having to leave the medical center. It's a place to gather outside the patient's room in a space where they can be a family together.

The Dillard family knows the importance of a strong unit. Their faith has led them to serve others and to give to causes that are dear to them. Through their support of Cook Children's, they are able to give families dealing with difficult circumstances a way to focus on each other and move forward together.

Another example of the Dillard family's support is "HeRO," a state-of-the-art heart rate observation technology that gives doctors and NICU nurses advance warning when a baby is at risk for infection. With this information, they get an early diagnosis and treatment can begin sooner, preventing longer than necessary hospital stays. HeRO reassures parents, offering them peace of mind in one aspect of their child's care. And because HeRO works with existing monitors, there are no extra cords or devices to attach to a baby's tiny body making holding, feeding and changing the baby less cumbersome.

For the Dillard family, giving is personal and meaningful to them, and to the families whose lives are touched by their generous hearts.

Vanessa and Jorge stayed in their own private room with their newborn, Nevaeh.

Partners in our promise

COOK CHILDREN'S IS HONORED TO PARTNER WITH LOCAL COMPANIES. BECAUSE THESE COMPANIES HAVE CHOSEN TO GIVE BACK TO THEIR COMMUNITY THROUGH GIFTS AND VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES, FORT WORTH CAN BECOME THE HEALTHIEST PLACE TO RAISE A CHILD.

LHOIST NORTH AMERICA

Employees of Lhoist North America raised $13,590 for Cook Children's in 2012 through online giving, a chili cook-off and a corporate matching gift program.

Lhoist North America believes in giving back to the communities where they serve and live. Knowing that the great work done by Cook Children's has a tremendous impact on the children in their local community, a partnership between the two was a natural one.

In its first year, Lhoist North America raised $13,590 through a chili cook-off, employee giving and a corporate matching gift program. The company plans to broaden the partnership this year through group volunteer opportunities at the medical center.

Lhoist North America employees truly embraced their campaign to raise funds for Cook Children's. Some had personal experiences and became passionate supporters and outspoken advocates for the cause. The daughter of one employee spent several weeks at Cook Children's in 1994, while recovering from a serious head injury. The degree of compassion she and her family received from every level of the organization was superb.

A great number of other employees have had personal experiences in our Neonatal Intensive Care Unit and Emergency Department. Cook Children's has touched the lives of many Lhoist North America employees, and this campaign became their way to express their gratitude and to pay it forward. Lhoist North America is a proud and cherished partner of Cook Children's.

Community partners

COOK CHILDREN'S IS BLESSED WITH MANY ACTIVE community groups WHO PHILANTHROPICALLY SUPPORT US BY HOSTING A VARIETY OF FUNDRAISING EVENTS. WE APPRECIATE ALL OF THESE enthusiastic donors AND THEIR volunteers WHO COORDINATE AND staff THESE EVENTS.

JEWEL CHARITY HELPS GRANT SIMPLE WISHES

At this year's Jewel Charity gift celebration on Feb. 5, Michele Reynolds, the 2012 Jewel Charity president, presented a ceremonial check to Cook Children's representing Jewel Charity's total lifetime giving, an astounding $58,620,382.76! For the past 59 years, Jewel Charity has generously supported Cook Children's to ensure that all children in our community receive the care they need and deserve. This past year's theme was "A Simple Wish," and through various fundraising efforts, the greatest of which was the annual Jewel Charity Ball on Dec. 15, 2012, Jewel Charity will help grant many wishes for patients at Cook Children's. In addition to its ongoing support of uncompensated care, this past year Jewel Charity also supported the Case Management and Hematology and Oncology programs. We are truly grateful for Jewel Charity's continued friendship and compassion for the children. Thank you, Jewel Charity, for hearing the simple wishes of our patients and helping us make them come true.

KYLE'S CARE

The Kyle Bradley Staples Memorial Foundation raises funds for families with children in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit at Cook Children's. Their support provides families comfort in the form of warm meals through Camelot Court gift cards. The second annual Kyle's Care Auction and Dinner in fall 2012 raised more than $21,000.

MOTOR HOME SPECIALIST

Motor Home Specialist is a new partner of Cook Children's and the number one motor home dealer in the world with just one location. Last fall, they launched the MHSRV.com 2012 year-end close-out promotion, which ran from Oct. 16 to Dec. 28. For every new motor home sold during this time, Motor Home Specialist donated $1,000 to Cook Children's, for a grand total of $202,000.

COLONIAL KIDS FOR A CAUSE

Year after year, a group of local young philanthropists, known as Colonial Kids for a Cause, have set up a lemonade stand during the Crowne Plaza Invitational at Colonial and donated the profits to the Henry House Foundation. In 2012, the kids voted that the Henry House donate the $10,000 they raised, combined with a donation from the Henry House, for a grand total of $25,000 to Cook Children's Child Life Zone.

Giving made easy

CHILDREN'S MIRACLE NETWORK HOSPITALS IS A NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATION THAT RAISES FUNDS THROUGH CORPORATE PARTNERSHIPS AND GRASSROOTS FUNDRAISING TO SUPPORT THE MEDICAL CARE, RESEARCH AND EDUCATION THAT IMPROVES AND saves the lives of 17 million children each year.

For Ace Hardware, giving back to the community is important. That's why they've been a national partner of Children's Miracle Network Hospitals since 1991. The Ace Hardware Dallas Retail Support Center located in Arlington and Cook Children's are a great example of this partnership. In 2012, this location raised $31,122.74 for Cook Children's, and they made it look easy!

Ace Hardware's employee giving campaign begins each year with a kick-off celebration. This effort is truly driven by the Ace Hardware leadership team because they believe so deeply in this cause. Their passion spreads to employees across the warehouse, through the offices and into the delivery trucks. Together, they embrace fundraising, knowing that their efforts will help children get the care that they deserve. An astounding 94 percent of the employees support this effort in one way or another.

Employees can choose to round up the dollar amount in their paychecks with the "change" going to Cook Children's through Children's Miracle Network Hospitals. Last year, this round-up program raised $6,764.73. Employees can also choose to give a set amount each paycheck, in addition to or instead of rounding.

Once a year, the Ace Hardware Retail Support Center also hosts a friends and family sale, offering unsold merchandise at discounted prices. Sales from this event benefit Children's Miracle Networks Hospitals, but because employees leave with merchandise, to them, it doesn't feel like an additional donation.

Employees can also buy an Array gift card, redeemable at more than 500 locations. With each purchase, Children's Miracle Network Hospitals receives 2.5 percent of the card's value. The company can also purchase these gift cards and give them to employees on their employment anniversary or as prizes during their giving campaign.

For the employees of the Ace Hardware Retail Support Center, giving is "just what they do." It's easy and it's impactful in the lives of the patients at Cook Children's.

Look for the miracle balloon in your neighborhood and know that all of the funds raised help children in our community.

LEGACY SOCIETY MEMBERS IMPACT THE LIVES OF FUTURE GENERATIONS

There are many ways for you to give to Cook Children's. Making an estate gift is one of them. Cook Children's Legacy Society honors and recognizes those who have included Cook Children's in their estate plans.

When Cook Children's was founded in 1918, philanthropic supporters knew how important it was to support quality health care and improve the well-being of local children. Now, several generations later, Cook Children's continues to provide outstanding health care, while also relying on the generous support of donors.

Qualifying gifts for membership in the Legacy Society include bequests, charitable trusts, gift annuities, life insurance, retirement plans and select gifts of real estate. Once Cook Children's has been notified of your designation to include Cook Children's in your estate plans, membership is automatic. Contributions are increasingly important to Cook Children's as we fulfill our promise of improving the health of every child in our region.

If Cook Children's is included in your estate plans, please let us know. Legacy Society members are invited to all Cook Children's Health Foundation events. We value the opportunity to thank you and your family for your advance planning. Your generosity will show others how they can benefit our patients through their own estate planning.
