Cook Children’s seminar

Infant feeding: A medical perspective

Biographies

Jennifer McReynolds, MS, CCC-SLP, LSLS, Cert. AVT, is a speech language pathologist at Cook Children’s. She received her master’s degree in communication disorders from the University of Texas at Dallas. She has more than 15 years of experience in varied settings, including pediatric home health, early childhood intervention, outpatient, inpatient, inpatient rehabilitation and neonatal and pediatric intensive care units. Jennifer is a member of National Association of Neonatal Therapists.

Financial disclosure: Jennifer is a Cook Children’s employee. She is not receiving compensation for this presentation.
Non-financial disclosure: Jennifer does not have any relevant non-financial disclosures.

Kimberly Richardson, MS, CCC-SLP, is a speech language pathologist at Cook Children’s. She received her master’s degree in speech language pathology at Texas Christian University. She specializes in pediatric feeding and has worked in the medical setting for 14 years. She has worked in outpatient, inpatient and neonatal and pediatric intensive care units. Kimberly is a member of the National Association of Neonatal Therapists.

Financial disclosure: Kimberly is a Cook Children’s employee. She is not receiving compensation for this presentation.
Non-financial disclosure: Kimberly does not have any relevant non-financial disclosures.

Jana Tieding, MS, CCC-SLP, is a speech language pathologist at Cook Children’s. She received her master’s degree in speech pathology from the University of North Texas in Denton. Jana has worked for 23 years in a variety of pediatric settings, including pediatric and neonatal intensive care units, inpatient, home health, university, outpatient and medical units. She currently specializes in pediatric feeding. Jana is a member of National Association of Neonatal Therapists.

Financial disclosure: Jana is a Cook Children’s employee. She is not receiving compensation for this presentation.
Non-financial disclosure: Jana does not have any relevant non-financial disclosures.

Alisa Jackson, MS, CCC-SLP, is a speech language pathologist at Cook Children’s. She received her master’s degree in speech pathology from the University of North Texas in Denton. Alisa has worked in pediatric outpatient settings. She currently works with inpatients in our pediatric intensive care unit and medical floors.

Financial disclosure: Alisa is a Cook Children’s employee. She is not receiving compensation for this presentation.
Non-financial disclosure: Alisa does not have any relevant non-financial disclosures.

Sara Lopes, MS, CCC-SLP, is a speech language pathologist at Cook Children’s. She received her master’s degree from the University of North Texas in Denton. Sara has worked in outpatient and inpatient units, as well as neonatal and pediatric intensive care units.

Financial disclosure: Sara is a Cook Children’s employee. She is not receiving compensation for this presentation.
Non-financial disclosure: Sara does not have any relevant non-financial disclosures.