Tips for a CF Vacation

By: www.cff.org

What’s the best way to have a good trip? Be prepared. Start with this checklist of things to do three to six months before you travel.

- Check in with your CF center before booking your trip to make sure you get a travel note and to assess your medical status. If you are not feeling well, you may need to be treated prior to your trip. You also should discuss a plan for treatments if you become sick and any impact time-zone differences may have on timed medications.
- Check on immunizations required for international travel.
- Make lists of medication and supplies you will need on your trip ahead of time. (Check and recheck this list!)

- Make sure you request a refrigerator at the place you will be staying for medications that need to be kept cold.
- Count all medications well ahead of your trip and get refills (order a month or so in advance if you use a mail-order pharmacy). You may need to talk with your insurance provider for refills needed prior to your trip; some will provide a “vacation allowance.”

What to Pack

- Make a list of emergency contacts in case you become sick or have problems with such things as your luggage.

- Bring a list of doctors who specialize in CF so you can get appropriate care if needed. Check the CF Foundation’s website (for national travel) and Cystic Fibrosis Worldwide (for international travel) for locations of CF centers.
- Pack alcohol-based hand sanitizer with you for good hand hygiene.
Make-A-Wish Foundation wants to grant more wishes!!

Make-A-Wish® grants the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions to enrich the human experience with hope, strength and joy. It’s a mission, and a privilege the organization takes very seriously. Make-A-Wish grants a wish every 38 minutes – more than 14,000 just last year! The wish experience allows kids battling life-threatening conditions to experience something beyond their medical conditions. It is a time when optimism and renewal overshadow their illness and treatment. And, most children with Cystic Fibrosis are eligible to receive a life-changing wish!

Make-A-Wish has carefully researched and reviewed the guidance around our eligibility criteria for Cystic Fibrosis. With the input and support of leading pulmonologists and Make-A-Wish medical advisors across the country, we determined that, effective Feb. 1, 2014, all patients with Cystic Fibrosis, except for those rare circumstances when they are free of respiratory involvement, will be eligible for a Make-A-Wish experience.

If you would be interested in pursuing a wish for your child and if he/she has not previously received a wish granted from us, or another wish-granting organization, please contact our local chapter, Make-A-Wish North Texas, at (888) 625-3294 or you can start the referral process online at md.wish.org.

CF patient spotlight: Graeme Jaetzold

by: Jennifer Jaetzold, mother

Graeme is 4 years old! He has the sweetest, most gentle heart! He loves to play with anything and everything that involves construction trucks and dinosaurs. He also loves to ride his bike and scooter with his sister and brother. Graeme is so excited to start PreK next year. He loves to learn and color in his Transformer coloring books. Graeme was diagnosed with Cystic Fibrosis at 3 weeks of age via Newborn Screening. He has an older sister that also has CF.

We have been going to Cooks since 2008 as that was the time that Graeme’s older sister was diagnosed. We love the entire team at Cooks. They truly listen to our concerns, discuss options for our children, and genuinely love our family.
Our dream for Graeme is that he will always strive to be a God-fearing, loving, caring young boy with a warrior spirit, and that CF will never get in the way of his dreams and passions. ....And that he will always stay a mommy’s boy ☺️

Life hack: The Pillbox

by: Gunnar Esiason

The first life hack that immediately comes to mind is the “pillbox.” I’ll admit, this is a pretty common thing, but I was without it for a while. A friend of mine with CF introduced me to the pillbox when I was in high school. You can find them anywhere on the Internet. I would imagine a pharmacy has them too. I know some people love to use the “weekly” pillbox, which is designed to help people to remember when to take their meds throughout the whole week. Personally, I prefer the daily pillbox. I’ve built it into my daily routine to put all of my necessary meds in the box at the beginning of the day. The particular one that I use has a large compartment for enzymes, then smaller compartments for any antibiotics, antacids or vitamins that I may need on a given day. Plus there’s room for auxiliary pills. Let’s be honest, you’re someone with CF, you never know when you may need ibuprofen or something like that. The bottom line is that the pillbox makes all necessary meds available, and most importantly, the pillbox makes it very easy to remember to take those pills. If I ever want a candy bar, I’m in luck because I have my enzymes on me. I always make sure I have the box with me when I leave the house. In fact, it’s gotten to the point where my friends are shocked if I ever don’t have it with me.
On the heels of exciting progress in the fight against CF, more than 500 of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation’s most dedicated volunteers, chapter staff and corporate supporters came together at the 12th annual CF Volunteer Leadership Conference, and hundreds more watched via live stream March 20-21.

Two families from the Northeast Texas, Fort Worth Cystic Fibrosis Chapter were able to attend the conference. It was an extraordinary two days, reviewing the tremendous progress made in the search for a cure and the amazing opportunities we have to move forward in our ultimate goal.

Volunteers discussed ways the CF community can work together to sustain progress in the research and care while helping improve the lives of people with the disease.

The conference speakers encourage us to collaborate with other to advance our shared mission by celebrating our passions, networking in our communities, and telling our stories. This can be achieved by:

Goal 1: Celebrate your passion and enhance our fundraising efforts

- Use your passion to create an event on our new passion fundraising website to help you exceed your Great Strides fundraising goal
- Use your passion to engage friends and family in our individual giving efforts
- Use your passion to create awareness for all your chapter fundraising events

Goal 2: Network to bring new people to our community

- Share your fundraising ideas and volunteer experiences and ask other to join our efforts
- Share out mission and remind your family, friends, and business acquaintances that our goal is to find a cure for CF and provide all people with the disease the opportunity to live full, productive lives.
- Share your goals for the future and how you will get there through collaboration with others in the CF community

Goal 3: Tell your story to educate the ways in which we serve the CF community

- Educate the community CF services, advocacy efforts and care center in your local area
- Let your friends and family know your “Why I Stride” story
- Integrate social media into your communications and fundraising plan

“Thanks to the hard work, dedication and steadfast support of our loyal and passionate volunteers, there is more hope in the CF community than ever before,” Beall said. “Our volunteers know that by coming together with local communities and collaborating with others, we can end this disease.”
